

CERTIFICATE OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

iversity hereby attests that according to the criteria set by the course instructor,

Anna Härri

has successfully completed the following course:

Workers' Rights in a Global Economy

Multi-disciplinary course that discusses what Global Workers' Rights are and which instruments and strategies can be used to implement them. Jointly taught by academics, as well as ILO and trade union experts, the course allows participants to gain both knowledge and practical skills for furthering workers' rights worldwide.

Timeframe: March 2016 to June 2016
by Prof. Paul Whitehead

Grade: A / Top 4%

PROF. PAUL WHITEHEAD

About The Global Labour University and the Penn State University

The Center for Global Workers' Rights at Penn State University promotes scholarly research and scholar-practitioner exchanges on issues affecting workers' rights. It participates in the Global Labour University, a network of universities and trade unions working with the ILO to offer labor-focused academic programs.

About iversity

iversity.org is a platform for online courses where instructors and universities from all over the world offer interactive academic courses. iversity ensures a high level of quality across its offerings in its effort to broaden the access to higher education online.

Please note:
This certificate does not affirm that the student was enrolled at the mentioned institution(s) or confer any form of degree or credit.