

Statement of Participation

iversity hereby certifies that Julian Hatwell has participated in the following course:

Visual Thinking for Business - Make Your Point

Taught from October 2015 to October 2016 by Prof. Dr. Christoph Hienerth.

Elementary drawing skills: You will learn to create representative objects and artefacts as well as people and characters. This includes:

- Revealing essential problems everyone faces in drawing and overcoming your fears
- How to draw and visualise simple forms, people, perspective and the third dimension

Visual presentation skills in the business setting: You will learn visual structuring methods so that you can transfer elementary drawing skills to the business environment and explain complex concepts with the common language of visualisation. This includes:

- Visual thinking and communication techniques
- The visual setting in meetings (flip-charts, whiteboards, blackboards, etc.)
- Some psychological aspects of communication between the presenter and the audience
