

CERTIFICATE OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

iversity hereby attests that according to the criteria set by the course instructor,

Yan-ho Lai

has successfully completed the following course:

International Labour Standards: How to Use Them

This certificate is awarded to recognise the completion of this course and the active online engagement of the above-mentioned course participant on the topics of international labour standards, the ILO's supervisory machinery, freedom of association and collective bargaining, and the right to strike.

Timeframe: February 2022 to February 2022
by Paul Whitehead

PAUL WHITEHEAD

About The Global Labour University and the International Training Centre of the ILO

The Global Labour University is a network of universities and trade unions working with the ILO to offer labor-focused academic programs. The International Training Centre of the ILO runs training, learning and capacity development services in support of Decent Work and sustainable development.

About iversity

iversity.org is a platform for online courses where instructors and universities from all over the world offer interactive academic courses. iversity ensures a high level of quality across its offerings in its effort to broaden the access to higher education online.

Please note:
This certificate does not affirm that the student was enrolled at the mentioned institution(s) or confer any form of degree or credit.