

Statement of Participation

iversity hereby certifies that MA Tamara Babić has participated in the following course from February 2017 to July 2017:

Stonehenge

Taught by Graeme Davis.

The course covers the fundamental information about Stonehenge: When it was built? Who built it? How was it built? Why was it built? In particular:

- Understand the present archaeological thinking about Stonehenge.
- Evaluate responses to Stonehenge in art, literature, music, architecture and culture.
- Consider your own response to Stonehenge and reflect through a Journal.

This MOOC is offered by The University of Buckingham (UK), which is supporting the Blick Mead Stonehenge archaeological dig (project leader Professor David Jacques). The University's Stonehenge speciality is reflected in an MA by research (taught in London) on archaeology and Stonehenge. The tutor is Professor Graeme Davis, who combines enthusiasm for archaeology and Stonehenge with subject speciality in the humanities and linguistics.

About University of Buckingham

Founded on the principles of Classical Liberalism, the University of Buckingham holds a unique position in the United Kingdom. We are an independent university with a Royal Charter which allows us to award our own degrees. We have the freedom to choose our own path and above all to focus on the needs of our students.
